The Decani Monastery Relief Fund Mission Statement

The Decani Monastery Relief Fund, based in Boise, ID solicits donations worldwide via the Internet. All money donated is immediately transferred from Boise to the Decani Monastery in Kosovo where the resident monks distribute it to the direct benefit of Serbian individuals and families living in the war-ravaged communities of Kosovo-Metohija.

The fund currently supports six soup kitchens and one bakery - which produce bread loaves, a vitally important part of diet in this region. It also funds the delivery of bread and other foodstuffs to villages and provides daily lunches to four schools as well as shoes and clothing for youth of all ages.

Your fund supports 61 scholarships to the University of Northern Kosovo and also scholarship assistance for Serbian youths at Boise State University, and at Hellenic College/Holy Cross Theological Seminary, as well as financial assistance to Serbian immigrants in Boise, Idaho

Other important issues, needs and problems addressed by our Fund include: refugee centers and camps; special needs of the elderly; electricity bills; firewood during winter months (including schools!); necessary medical (and surgical) procedures; Orthodox celebrations of Christmas and Easter-Pascha; shortages of hay and farm equipment.

The Fund has also purchased pigs for 200 families annually!

The needs in Kosovo-Metohija continue to increase as events in the region continue to leaving many homeless and indigent.

If you can donate to this very worthy cause please do so by sending your check to:
